++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Wet and windy start, clearing to heavy showers for afternoon.

Today:
Area of rain and strengthening winds spreading northward, reaching all by mid-morning, occasionally turning heavy, particularly over Argyll and Ayrshire. From late morning this clears northwards, with showers following from the south, potentially heavy, thundery and slow moving. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Tonight:
Clear spells and some scattered showers, but across western areas these turn frequent towards dawn, west to northwest winds increasing strong to gale. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Monday:
A day of showers, these quite frequent and occasionally heavy, particularly in the west, before easing from late afternoon. Strong west to northwest winds, reaching gale force at times initially. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Mainly dry, bright from Central Belt southwards, with generally northerly winds largely restricting showers to Argyll. Here outbreaks occasional Tuesday, isolated Wednesday, then mostly died out Thursday as pressure builds.
